MUST GO AHEAD

Council Again Orders Street Work to Continue.

PUBLIC WORKS BOARD, HOWEVER PROTESTS.

Council Orders New Fire Limits Ordinance Brought In and Passes Some Bills.

FULL MINUTES OF THE MEETING LAST NIGHT.

At last night's session of the council that board of city authorities remained firm in the stand that there shall go forward without delay the work of reconstructing Kentucky avenue on out from Fourth to Ninth street and Jefferson from Fifth to Ninth. They again voted instructions to the board of public works to continue that work until the weather got so bad that nothing more could be done.

While speaking on the question Councilman John Rehkopf stated that heretofore the public contractors have been twisting the city authorities around their fingers, delaying their work without fear and doing just to suit themselves and that he thought now was a good opportunity to teach the bitulithic people a lesson by making them pay the penalty provided for in their contract, which stipulates they shall forfeit so much money each day beyond November 1st if they have not completed the contract awarded them for improvement on both thoroughfares in question.

President Noble, of the board of works, urged that the work stop at Fourth on the avenue and Fifth on Jefferson, because the balance could not possibly be completed before cold weather comes, and also that last winter's experience showed them the composition could not be properly put down. Continuing he said that the bitulithic on Broadway was not what the board of works expected in the least, and that many sections of same would have to be torn up and put into proper condition before the board would accept the improvement, which has never yet been accepted by the city and ordered paid for.

The majority of the council took the stand, though, that the bitulithic people had dilly-dallied along here for several months and done nothing towards starting the work, therefore they should be compelled to go ahead with the operations, and if same was not completed within the time prescribed in the contract the penalty should be paid by the contractors.

In speaking of this unnecessary delay in commencing City Engineer Washington said it was not any fault of his office that the start was not taken up.

After the council voted the work to go ahead Mr. Noble expressed himself on the floor as believing their attitude was one of spite towards the board of works, but that the latter would do as the legislative authorities directed and thereby leave the responsibility with the council, if the streets had to be left torn up during bad weather.

There was again brought up the matter of fixing Bradshaw creek in the West End so there could be drained out of the creek valley the ponds of unhealthy sloop and closet waters that are cooped up therein. The board of works was ordered to do whatever they thought best to rid that section of the bad accumulation.

The street committee was given power to act as regards opening the new streets that will run from the end of Caldwell street, two blocks this side of the Union depot over across the railroad tracks to where the new box factory is erecting its plant. The city pays for the fill, property owners for the street, but the box company is not to be permitted to erect its building where in after years a public thoroughfare will want to be run through. This would block the highway.

The Illinois Central railroad was given authority to place around on their track on Second between Jackson and Ohio streets the carloads of coal received for the public schools. The coal has to be weighed on the city scales, and this portion of the river front switch is close to the public scale and makes it more convenient for unloading.

General Agent Donovan had objected to putting the cars around there without directions from the authorities for fear of blocking the street.

To the board of supervisors was passed the complaint of the Anheuser Busch brewery that the city had this concern assessed $1,000 for city tax purposes on property not worth more than $150.

The ordinance committee was ordered to get up a new ordinance by the first of next year governing the city sewerage inspector's office and duties.

Instructions were given to the board of works to proceed with the new concrete culvert to be laid under Caldwell street one block this side of the Union depot. The I. C. will furnish the rock for the improvement and the street railway company the cement, both being benefited by the work.

The trustees of the First Baptist church at Fifth and Jefferson streets, want to take advantage of the ten year payment plan in paying their portion of the proposed bitulithic and concrete pavement improvement running on the Jefferson street side of the church. They put in a request to this effect, and it was filed for reference at the proper time.

The sale by Mayor Yeiser to John Simmott, Sr., of Tenth and Clay street property owned heretofore by the city, was ratified. Mr. Simmott gave $1,110 for the ground.

E. Fels presented a protest against bitulithic and storm sewers being put on Jefferson street, and the document was filed.

When the Anheuser-Busch brewery's local agent several months ago violated the city laws by selling beer on Sunday they were fined, and suit filed for forfeiture of their $1,000 bond they executed to abide by all municipal regulations. Lawyer Ed Puryear was solicitor at that time and filed the suit, which the brewery people got Campbell & Campbell to defend. Now Puryear has resigned the city solicitorship and James Campbell, Jr., been appointed, but the latter cannot prosecute for the city the suit against Anheuser-Busch because his private firm defends that company.

Last meeting this was referred to Mayor Yeiser to act, and he now reported that the former solicitor would prosecute the action for the municipality for $100. The question was then referred to the joint finance committee with power to act.

Nothing was done about changing from five to six feet in width the proposed concrete walks for Jefferson between Fourteenth and Eighteenth streets.

To the cemetery committee was referred the complaint of Mrs. Shankler that Charles Smith had possession of a part of her cemetery lot without authority.

The ordinance extending the fire limits was ordered brought in immediately.

Two weeks ago the council ordered the public horse fountain at Third and Clark moved to Twelfth and Burnett, but the aldermen later refused this proposition and instructed that the Third and Clark drinking trough be moved around the corner off of Third into Clark. Now this latter idea was brought up before the council last night and they refused to let the trough be moved at all.

Bills and salary accounts were presented and allowed.

The board voted down the ordinance providing for curbs and gutters on Elizabeth street between Third and Fourth, because the property owners remonstrated against the improvement.

Second adoption was given the measure stipulating that anyone shall be fined $10 for making or using the official seal of the city of Paducah outside of authorized persons.

The L. C. wants to run a spur track from its main line at Ninth and Harrison streets over half a square to the new Hardy buggy factory, and first adoption was given the ordinance authorizing them to do so.

Back to the joint street committee was passed the bill for grading and graveling Nineteenth street from Broadway to Guthrie avenue, and Guthrie avenue to the Mayfield road. Some more streets out there are to be improved, and to make some changes the ordinance referred to was handed back to the committee so all could be considered together.

Initial adoption was given the measure renewing the ferryboat franchise of Owen Brothers who operate the Bettie Owen between here, Brookport and the Illinois landings opposite.

The communication from the Arts heirs regarding some streets, was referred to the joint street committee.

The water company was ordered to extend its supply mains from Twelfth and Hampton to Rowlandtown, and also on Guthrie avenue. The water company filed notice it had completed extensions on Trimble from Sixteenth to Twenty-fourth street, while requests for extensions on Washington between Fifteenth and Sixteenth, and on Lincoln avenue and Tennessee street, were referred back to the property owners wanting the mains put out that way. They had not gotten up their petitions with the proper number of prospective patrons on same.

John Dye and Andy Stewart were granted a license to open a saloon at 1501 South Third street.

Dennis Long and Harrison Loving have moved their saloon from 928 South Tenth to Tenth and Husbands streets, and asked that their license be transferred from the old to new location. Granted.

The first of this year the city boards adopted a license ordinance stipulating that parties engaged in the grain, coal, cement, etc., business should pay an annual license of $60. Bradley Brothers went ahead and paid their license, while the other dealers did not. These merchants then got the council to reduce the license to $35, which they paid. Now Bradley Brothers asked to be refunded the $25 extra they paid, and this was granted.

City Solicitor Campbell was ordered to draw up a contract to be entered into with James Clark, who agrees to look after the city's garbage dump below the I. C. incline, for $40 per month, from April to October of each year, and $25 per month the balance of the year.

J. R. Moore, Charles Hinkle and M. H. Bradley complained that their property had been assessed too high when valued for city tax purposes. Their protests were referred to the supervisors.

The board of works was given the request of residents of that vicinity, asking that a street corner be lighted by placed at Twelfth and Salem, and another two squares from the colored Baptist church of that vicinity.

There was received and filed, but nothing done, with the request of market house butchers that the city authorities prevent peddlars from hawking meats over the city. The matter will be taken up the first of next year when the new license ordinance goes into effect, and these peddlars be made pay license to do business.

Ed Madison wants to transfer one half of this Oak Grove cemetery lot to Wm. Shaeffer and one half to Mrs. King. This matter was referred to the cemetery committee.

The Illinois Central railroad when it built across Second and Monroe street the switch track leading into behind Covington Brothers wholesale grocery, left things so that a puddle of water accumulates and remains standing at Second and Monroe. On this being brought up the road was ordered to remedy things by opening a gutter to allow the water to flow off.

Councilman Kolb brought up the question of the new concrete walk on the west side of South Second street, being several feet higher than the brick street right alongside it, at the Kentucky avenue end of the market, therefore a dangerous place for people walking along, and especially after nightfall, when they might fall from the pavement to street below, and be injured. The board of works was ordered to see what they could do towards remedying this. They may have to put an iron railing along the edge of the pavement.

The city solicitor was ordered to get up a deed transferring the old school building property in Mechanicsburg to the board of education, which owns it, but the title has always been in name of the city of Paducah.

Ordinances were ordered drafted for adoption, authorizing that Harrison street have pavements laid on both sides from Eighth to Thirteenth streets, and that Eleventh be paved from Madison to Monroe.

The board then adjourned.

Yesterday morning when court resumed Judge W. M. Reed was on the bench after a several days absence on account of illness.

A continuance until the next term of court was granted Willis Mount, charged with killing Willis Nutty, the jockey, above The Stag saloon on North Fourth street several years ago. The postponement was given because certain important witnesses for the defense are away and cannot be gotten here right now to testify.

There was dismissed the indictment charging Percy Williams, with breaking into the storehouse of August Denker. The charge was then re-submitted to the grand jury for another indictment.

Detective T. J. Moore was selected to carry Dennis Reed to the reform school, he being the lad who stole a bicycle from one party and sold it to another. The detective expects to leave today.

FRICION GROWS

Russia and Turkey May Next Be in a Row.

FORTIFICATION ON BOSPHORUS DISPLEASES CZAR

Turkey Took Advantage of Mutiny on Russian Battleship to Carry Out Desire.

MATTER HAS BEEN OFFICIALLY DISCUSSED SOME

Constantinople, Sept. 18.—The steady progress of the work on the new fortifications on the Bosphorus is causing friction between Russia and the Porte.

The fortifications were hastily commenced at the time of the mutiny on board the Russian battleship Kniiaz Potemkin, Turkey seizing upon this pretext as a means for carrying out a scheme of fortifications which she had long desired, but which had always been opposed by Russia.

It is understood that the question was discussed at the recent audience which the Russian Ambassador, M. Zinovieff, had with the sultan, the Ambassador pointing out that the further fortification of the straits will be incompatible with friendly relations between Turkey and Russia.

Meanwhile, the works are being actively pushed, though they can hardly be completed for several months.

The Porte continues its irreconcilable attitude regarding the proposed international financial control of Macedonia.

BLAME RUSSIAN GOVERNMENT

Do Armenian-Americans For the Massacres in Caucasus.

Boston, Sept. 18.—The Armenian-American citizens of Boston and the vicinity held a mass-meeting last night to protest against the massacres of Armenians in the Caucasus. Resolutions were adopted denouncing the Russian authorities and holding them responsible for the death of thousands of innocent persons. The local officials were charged with having actually excited the disorders and encouraged Moslem fanaticism.

"By seizing the weapons of the Armenians," the resolutions declared, "the Russian authorities deprived our compatriots of their means of self-defense, and furthermore, did not use their military power to protect them against the attacks of Tartars, but on the contrary allowed the leaders of these outrages to go unpunished."

"The Russian government," in entire disregard of international law, permitted the entrance into its territory of armed Kurds to join the Tartars in their murder and plunder."

"We protest against this barbarous state of affairs in the Caucasus and appeal to the humane sentiments of the American people and government to bring pressure to bear upon the government at St. Petersburg and put an end to the bloodshed."

MOBILIZATION AGAIN DENIED

Norway Making Only Preparation For Her Defense.

Christiania, Norway, Sept. 18.—Another semi-official denial of the renewed charges of a Norwegian mobilization of troops was issued in this morning's Swedish papers. It declared that Norway has made no military preparations except such as were absolutely necessary from a defensive point of view and that the report that practically all the troops in central Norway and in the frontier districts have been mobilized is unfounded.

CHAMBLEE BROS. 430 BROADWAY

"Oh, Why Should the Spirit of Mortal be Proud?"

BY MRS. JOHN A. LOGAN.

Memory brings before me many times the dazzling splendors of the ceremonies attending the coronation of Nicholas II and his lovely empress, which I witnessed in 1896. The old city of Moscow, with her parti-colored roofs and mosques with gilded minarets and domes, was decorated with all the modern appliances as she had never been before. The wealth of the Russian empire had been poured out unstintingly for the coronation of their rulers. Representatives from every government on the face of the globe came with suites innumerable. Those from the courts of Europe and Oriental kingdoms wore their most gorgeous uniforms and court dress.

Grand Duke Sergius, whose tragic death was recently chronicled, as commander-in-chief of the Russian army, had mobilized the crack regiments of the empire in the city known as "The Holy Mother." For weeks and months the preparations went on under the arch grand master of ceremonies and matchless gentleman, Prince Dolgorouki, aided by the most skillful artists and artisans, until that bright morning, May 20, when the emperor, empress and dowager empress, were to make their grand entry from the Petrovski palace to the Kremlin, the scene was bewilderingly beautiful. Those who looked upon that pageant as it moved majestically through the streets as if impelled by autocratic power can never forget it, and will never look-upon its like again.

First with a flare of trumpets came the mounted gendarmes, who are little less than a division of the army, their uniforms and quipages having even more gold lace on them than some of the regiments of the czar's legions.

Then the emperor's body guard, followed by squadrons of those famous troopers of Russia, the Cossacks of the Guard, whose uniforms of scarlet tunics, with silver facings and broad silver epaulettes, blue breeches tucked into knee boots of shiny black leather, turbans of black astrachan with scarlet crown with the double eagle of Russia on the front, made them striking figures and added brilliancy to the color scheme.

They made a fitting vanguard for the body of Asiatic princes who followed bedecked in all the barbaric splendor of Orientalism and displaying by their resplendent dress the extent of Russia's victories in the Far East. Everyone in the procession was mounted on superb horses, which were gayly caparisoned in the most elaborate trappings of gold and silver plate. These were followed by innumerable representatives from every province of the vast empire of Russia.

A long line of court carriages in which were the high officials of the empire and of the court came next. In the first, drawn by six white horses, sat Prince Dolgorouki, the arch grand master of ceremonies of the court, alone; horses, carriage, coachmen, footmen and attendants were heavily panopied in gold lace, bright plumes, gold and silver plate.

After his carriage twenty-four gentlemen of the chamber and more than a dozen chamberlains, who wore court dress, with heavy gold lace, their breast almost completely covered with medals, studded with glittering jewels, made a dazzling spectacle. These were followed by dignitaries of foreign courts. The grand marshal of the Russian court, bearing his insignia, rode alone in a state phaeton of royal magnificence.

Following was the guard of the dowager empress, a squadron of the Cavalier Guards and Gardes a Cheval, whose uniforms of white, trimmed with gold braid, laid on a scarlet band, a golden cuirass, massive gold helmets surmounted with the imperial eagle in gold, a white star with blue enamel on the center of the front, white gauntlets and blue breeches tucked into high black boots, heavy gold belt, from which hung a cavalry saber, were showy beyond description. Their horses were brilliantly caparisoned.

A few paces behind, mounted on a snow white horse, finest of his kind came the emperor his dark green uniform and black astrachan cap contrasting sharply with the bright uniforms and gayly bedecked figures which preceded and followed him. It was the man in whose honor all the display was being made, though youthful, unpretentious, mild of manner and mien, yet the autocratic ruler of a mighty nation, who inspired an outburst of admiration from the thousands of his subjects and visitors who lined the streets, filled the windows and even the housetops, along the whole line of the procession, shouting, "Long Live the Emperor."

His mother, the Dowager Empress, the Empress, Crown Princess and Princesses, dukes and duchesses, royal representatives of every empire and kingdom and officials from every republic on the globe in glittering array followed to the palace inside the Kremlin. The emperor's right hand was held all the way to his cap in acknowledgement of the adulations of the people, many in their hearts saluting him as divine.

The ceremonies lasted for days, each marked by homage to Nicholas II, ending in the coronation of their majesties, whose crowns were so weighted with rare gems as to be almost insupportable. To an intelligent observer it seemed there could be nothing added to emphasize the power and imperial sway of the czar or that would satisfy his highest ambition.

Alas! whatever of happiness and gratification was vouchsafed to him was of short duration. Ere many moons he heard the murmurings of discontent which were not long in becoming a swelling tide, and though a decade has not yet passed the scene has changed and he has had to have a wall of armed protectors about him for much of the time. He and his family have been practically exiled from the palace in St. Petersburg.

He has had to yield to the clamorings for war on foreign soil. He and his devoted wife, the gracious empress, have had to keep sad vigils over the little ones and have probably known little of tranquil rest since the proud day when the royal diadems of Russia were placed upon their heads.

A TRULY IDEAL WIFE HER HUSBAND'S BEST HELPER

Vigorous Health Is the Great Source of the Power to Inspire and Encourage—All Women Should Seek It.

One of the most noted, successful and richest men of this century, in a recent article, has said, "Whatever I am and whatever success I have attained in this world I owe all to my wife. From the day I first knew her she has been an inspiration, and the greatest helpmate of my life."

Mrs. Beattie Ansley

To be such a successful wife, to retain the love and admiration of her husband, to inspire him to make the most of himself, should be a woman's constant study.

If a woman finds that her energies are flagging, that she gets easily tired, dark shadows appear under her eyes, she has backache, headaches, bearing-down pains, nervousness, white, irregularities or the blues, she should start at once to build up her system by a tonic with specific powers, such as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Following we publish by request a letter from a young wife:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham: "Ever since my child was born I have suffered, as I hope for women ever have, with indigestion, female weakness, bearing-down pains, backache and wretched headaches. It affected my stomach so I could not enjoy my meals, and my life was a misery."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman, and I feel so grateful that I am glad to write and tell you of my marvelous recovery. It brought me health, new life and vitality. —Mrs. Beattie Ansley, 611 South 10th Street, Tacoma, Wash.

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Ansley it will do for every sick and ailing woman.

If you have symptoms you don't understand write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free and always helpful.

The Register is authorized to announce HARRY S. ALLEN as a candidate for Coroner of McCracken county, subject to action of the democratic precinct conventions to be held Saturday, October 7.

Corruption in Politics.

The national republican campaign committee is now confronted with the sworn testimony of an official of the New York Life Insurance company to the effect that his company contributed $50,000 to the campaign fund last year. The accusation was made during the campaign that the republican party was the beneficiary of large "contributions" from the corporate interests of the East, but republicans high in authority and in a position to know vehemently denied the accusation, but now the plain cold fact is given to their denials.

Campaign contributions are but the price for protection or favorable legislation, and every contribution demanded and given is but a bribe. Speaking from a "practical" political standpoint it has been the good fortune of the republican party in late years to be so entrenched as to easily receive large sums of money for corrupt purposes. Many corporations "contribute" to both parties so as to be sure to land on the winning side, and certain democratic leaders are just as eager to pluck the corporations as the leaders of the opposite party.

In 1901 rumors were rife of the great campaign steal in this state by certain so-called democrats. It was openly talked that three of the gang virtually stole about $60,000 that was intended for the state campaign fund in 1900. The customary appeals or rather demands were sent to the rich concerns in the East and the campaign managers were amazed to receive some replies that some weeks before checks for $10,000 had been sent to Kentucky, but rumor has it that the money never went into the treasury of the campaign committee but into the pockets of certain individuals. Beckham in making his campaign in 1903 threatened to expose the theft, but some cold-blooded and shrewd politics were played and the occasion no longer required an exposure.

The observations are merely made to impress the decent people that as a rule the political affairs of this country, of both parties, seem to be in the hands of a set of rascals and thieves, common bribe takers and bribe givers. This is the gentry that have their little mouthpieces in every city in the land to howl "stand by the party," which means nothing more or less than for the people to stand by a gang that fattens and grows rich off the spoils of politics, when they should really be in the penitentiaries of the country learning a trade.

The American citizen who does not stand flat footed for honesty in politics and against the grafters and political thieves, is not a good citizen. He fails in his duty to his home, his country and his children. By suffering himself to be dominated by political tricksters and slyster lawyers he is simply passing down as an heritage to his children a corrupt and vicious form of government that will ever be present to plague the generations to come with burdensome taxation, biased courts, and they no longer freemen. Let every true citizen think for himself, vote for his country's good and do his full duty towards resisting the encroachments on the liberties of the people. The vicious and criminal element should be in the jail houses, and their friends and protectors driven from places of trust and honor. We are not appealing to your neighbor to do this, but to you who may read what we have to say. It is you to whom we address ourselves, and not to the other fellow.

Every Good Citizen's Duty.

If the American voter desires honesty in politics and none but honest men in office, he must not wait for national and state elections, but open his eyes to what is going on right at home and in his own ward and precinct. Vote against the grafter, the tool and the questionable character for constable, magistrate, alderman or councilman, and then good men will offer for those places. Give the local leaders to understand that indifferent men will be defeated. When this is done a great change will be wrought in local affairs, and the good work will be spread to the state and the nation. The time is at hand for the good people in every city in the land to stand together, work together and make every fellow show his colors. Organize and arrange so that each and every man may know how every other man stands on the question of better government. Taxpayers and the wage-earners have the right to demand economical administration of public affairs, and the defeat of every candidate who stands for any special interest against that of the people.

Judge Alton B. Parker, the late democratic candidate for the presidency, in discussing the recent disclosure of a $50,000 contribution by a large insurance company to the republican committee said:

"It is not my purpose to claim that the democratic party, subjected to the temptation which has overcome the other party during the last few years, would have acted differently. Mere party advantage should not be sought from the disclosures made in this investigation. But the facts should be diligently sought, that the people may become so aroused that they will insist upon legislation making it a criminal offense for officers to contribute corporate funds for political purposes and depriving the apparently successful candidates of their offices."

"Efforts in that direction have been making in different states since November last, and partially in this date. But the republican organization would not consent to it, so the legislature defeated the bills. And the organization never will consent until an aroused public sentiment shall threaten legislators with political oblivion who fail to enact effective laws on the subject."

It is said that Japan learned much from America. Yes, three of the Japanese naval paymasters have been detected in embezzling $165,000 during the past twelve months.

Mr. Parker can now get back at his enemies in the last national canvass by saying "I told you so."

Is Honor Wanting?

(Louisville Courier-Journal.)
Are the educated classes in the United States, overtrained by the schools in everything except a high standard of personal honor, gradually drifting into loose notions about right and wrong with respect to the disposition, the gaining and the losing of money?

Many business developments and disclosures the country would lead one to think so, but the light thrown upon the subject by the removal of only a part of the lid concerning the operations of the insurance companies is positively dazing. The sangroid with which transactions little short of infamous are admitted and related, and sometimes justified, bears witness to the lowest order of integrity, whilst the matter-of-course way the public takes it, is proof of an insensibility which is none the less shocking that it does not put itself to the trouble of affecting surprise and seems not to be troubled at all.

Here comes Mr. George W. Perkins to tell with unblushing candor that the New York Life gave in three presidential elections sums aggregating nearly one hundred and fifty thousand dollars to the republican campaign fund. This faces two ways. It impeaches both the New York Life and the republican party. Not a penny of the money belonged to Mr. John A. McCall, the president of the company, who gave it, and who, Mr. Perkins goes out of his way to inform us, is a democrat, whilst if the republican party got so much of a single corporation what

TIRED FEELING?

A tired or languid feeling is a sign of weak vitality, and this, in women, is nearly always due to the debilitating influence of female trouble. When your menstrual functions are out of order, they call upon the nerves for help, and your nerves answer the call by throwing into the weak parts all the blood force and vitality they can possibly get together. Of course this weakens the rest of your body. Of course you feel tired and languid. Of course you need outside help to keep up your strength and help to make you well. This necessary help you can get by taking Cardui, the pure, old, reliable, scientific remedy for sick women. For tiredness, weakness, irregular menstruation, monthly pains, dragging sensations, debilitating discharge, and all female complaints, a sure cure is Interesting Reports Concerning Progress of Traffic in Japan.

Washington, Sept. 18.—The department of commerce continues to furnish reports concerning the progress of trade in Japan. It is shown by the most recent one that Japan now has thirty ports open to foreign trade. Osaka is the leading one, and boasts of so much shipping that it is called the Liverpool of the East. A million people or more live at this busy place, and enormous docks are being built there.

In 1884 the imports of Japan were valued at only $25,000,000. Of this amount the United States supplied $2,000,000, and Great Britain $11,000,000. In 1904 Japan bought $185,000,000, of which the United States furnished $29,000,000, and Great Britain $37,000,000. The leading products sold to the Japanese by our merchants were mineral oils, flour and raw cotton. In the same year Japan's exports amounted to $159,000,000. The heaviest buyer from Japan was the United States—$50,423,000. China was next—$33,857,000. Great Britain came tow down in the list—only $8,787,000. It will be seen that our purchases are one-third of the total Japanese exports.

The department makes right here this comment:
"This result, in the face of protective tariffs in both lands, proves that

GLASS HOUSE IS NO DREAM

Would Cost Much More Than an Ordinary House—Could Have Glass Furniture, and Its Tenants Could Wear Glass Clothes—Many Uses for Wire Glass.

"The old adage about people who live in glass houses is in a way of being spoiled of its meaning by the advance of modern industry and invention," said the eastern representative of one of the largest glass manufacturing concerns in the country to a New York Sun reporter the other day. "It's a fascinating study to watch how the wise old saws of our forefathers are one after another being shaken, or disproved, or rendered no longer applicable by modern knowledge and experimentation."

"This glass bag, for instance, is probably the latest of such old sayings to suffer total eclipse, for it is entirely possible and feasible now for a man to live in a glass house without any fear of damage from flying stones, any more, than if he lived in any ordinary house of wood, brick or stone. A man may build his whole house of glass and have a remarkably safe, comfortable and healthful dwelling, too. I do not know that such a house has yet been built anywhere in the world, but here is a chance for a chap who wants to put up a house that shall be unique."

"And when he sets about it he will be surprised to find how easily it can be done. The chief element entering into the construction of our glass house would be glass bricks, which are now made hollow, and are therefore light in weight, yet they are much stronger than ordinary bricks made of clay."

"They are absolutely impervious to water and they are non-conductors of sound and heat. Our prospective builder will see at once their obvious advantages over ordinary building materials in durability, in protection from outside noise and from cold."

"These blown glass bricks are, of course, opaque, so the dweller in the glass house will enjoy just as much privacy as any other. They are hermetically sealed when red hot, and so are perfectly clean and proof against all disease germs."

"These bricks can be laid up in cement made of a fine white glass sand, and so the walls will present the appearance of handsome, clean and unbroken vitreous surfaces. The walls could be washed down with a hose as often as desired for absolute cleanliness without doing the slightest damage."

"For foundations a material called stone glass should be used. This has three times the resisting power granite to crushing strains. The roof will be of glass tiles, which can now be obtained in any desired color and which would add a charming effect of color to the completed house."

"Inside the house practically all fixings and furnishings will be made of glass. All the plumbing, all water pipes, sewer pipes, all flues for heating and conduits for electric wires will be of glass. And this will insure, not alone greater cleanliness, but as well greater safety. Such glass pipes are fireproof."

"Besides the pipes, drains, etc., the fixtures to be made of glass will include sinks, washbasins, bathtubs and bath tubs. Of course, the floors and stairs will be made of glass. And window shutters and doors could be made of the same material if desired."

"If, after seeing the success of his experiment in building a glass house, our owner should wish to do so, he could go further and have many articles of furniture made of this material—such as tables, beds, boards and so on, and toughened glassware could replace all crockery."

"The old idea that glass is necessarily the most brittle of all substances will in time be modified as the knowledge becomes widespread that in masses it is really a kind of rock and is, indeed, harder than most of the hardest rocks. When put through certain toughening processes glass becomes almost indestructible."

"I will not deny that the builder of such a glass house would have to be a rich man, for while all or nearly all of the things I have enumerated as entering into the construction and furnishing of such a house are now on the market and can be utilized in the way suggested, it is true that the most of them are a good bit more expensive than similar things made of other material. But I believe the time is at hand when it will not be so much more expensive to build a house of moderate size of glass than to build it of brick or stone."

"When they were first manufactured a few years ago glass bricks were made solid, as they still are for paving, and glass bricks for paving are being used to a considerable extent for paving in Paris and other large cities in Europe today; they having been found superior to asphalt or Belgian blocks for such use, as they make no dirt whatever and hold less than any other known kind of pavement, being easily washed clean; and easier than either of the substances named. But for building purposes solid glass bricks were not a success. By making them hollow all difficulties have now been overcome. There has sprung up in the last few years is growing use for them in building of green houses, for which they are admirable because of their qualities of not conducting heat. Tall chimneys have also been constructed of these glass bricks, and they have given satisfaction thus used.

"When the builder of the first glass house, such as I have been telling you about, comes to die, he can be buried in a glass coffin—some people have been buried in them already; he can have his grave marked with a glass tombstone or have an elaborate tombstone or his mausoleum built of glass to mark his final resting place, and thus even after death signify his predilection for this wonderful material."

The agent of another manufacturing company, to whom the reporter went for confirmation (or denial) of the predictions of this enthusiastic prophet of an age of glass, was inclined to laugh at the idea of a house built entirely of glass, not because it was impossible, but chiefly because of its great cost.

"So far as I know," he said, "no body has ever attempted to build a house of glass bricks. It would be possible, of course, for such bricks are made and sold today, but they are vastly more expensive than ordinary bricks and I fear always will be."

"Yet the time is not far distant when some buildings will be wholly constructed of glass. I have right here in my office now a set of blue prints of plans for a bank building soon to be erected at Des Moines, Iowa, which will probably be the first structure of the size and importance to be built mostly of glass in the United States."

"This is to be two or three stories high and about eighty feet square, as I remember it. The plans call for a steel frame construction, using as little of the steel as possible in the frame, and making all sides of wire glass, that is, glass made on a wire mesh such as you may see used in all the kiosks of the subway stations here in New York, and in many of the newer buildings for certain windows or interior shafts, for elevator casings and many other purposes."

"This wire glass is made in a variety of styles and finishes. The Des Moines bank building is to have a double wall of wire glass, with an air space between, to insure warmth in winter. It would be possible to create a weird effect in such a building. And yet where plenty of light was a desideratum one might do far worse than to build the walls of wire glass."

"The great advantage of this wire glass is that it is practically impossible to shatter a piece of it so suddenly or so violently as to throw off fragments of sufficient size to do personal damage. The wire prevents the broken pieces from falling. It can be cracked, but it cannot be scattered. If fractured it retains its place."

"And furthermore it is fireproof. Chief Crocker, of the New York fire department, in a paper read before the International Association of Fire Chiefs a short time ago, said that in his opinion wire glass set in metal frames was the best known fire stop for windows and skylights."

"Wire glass is now being used extensively for the skylights of train sheds, shops and other buildings of large area; for windows, doors, glass partitions, and so on, in buildings of all kinds; in automobiles, locomotive cabs and for end construction in railroad cars, in fact in all sorts of places where glass is needed and where it is desirable to guard against damage or injury from falling or flying fragments if the glass is broken. It is also of use for showcases, bookcases, postoffice boxes, ballot boxes and other places requiring security without obstruction of vision."

"I don't know much about glass bricks, except that they have been used for paving in several western towns, and I believe they have been found successful for that use."

"Visitors to the Columbian exposition in Chicago in 1893 will remember the display of spun and woven glass and brilliant colored neckties and other small fabrics resembling silk or satin; at that time one American firm presented Princess Eulalie a gown woven of glass. Such fabrics are made chiefly for exhibition purposes, and will probably never become either feasible or cheap enough to be popular; though it is reported that one Venetian manufacturer has recently gone into the business of making glass bonnets on a commercial scale."

New household utensils of glass are constantly being put on the market. Among the latest of these are handles for carving knives and forks made of pressed glass. They are both pretty and serviceable."

American manufacturers of glass admit that in the making of fine prisms and other glass parts and adjustments for scientific instruments and of stemmed vases and tableware the Europeans are far in the lead. The chief aim of the American glass manufacturer seems to be quantity rather than quality, and he is pushing his wares into all the markets of the world where cheap glassware was never known before."

The European makers do not make any quantity of the cheaper tableware known as pressed glass, and so even in the glass manufacturing centers of Europe the American makers are finding good markets for that kind of goods. The Europeans are surprised at its excellence and cheapness."

In other parts of the world there has sprung up in the last few years a remarkable demand for the Amer-

LEATHER MADE FROM A PLANT

The department of agriculture is trying to introduce into cultivation in this country a plant native to Japan, which furnishes a sort of vegetable leather. It is a pretty shrub called the "mitsumata," and its inner bark, after going through a process of maceration, is converted into a substance as tough as French kid, so translucent that one can almost see through it, and as pliable and soft as calf-skin. In Japan pipe cases and tobacco pouches are manufactured from the material, as well as a kind of wall paper which is already becoming fashionable in America. Such wall papers of vegetable leathers are turned out in beautiful designs for wall and ceiling ornaments, being stamped and modeled by hand in most artistic patterns.

It would seem that we have a good deal to learn from the Japanese about paper-making. Already we import large quantities of another kind of paper obtained from the same plant, for use as legal documents, diplomas, deeds and bonds. There are at least eight other plants from which the subjects of the Mikado obtain paper stuff, while we depend for such material upon wood pulp and rags of cotton and linen.

Mr. David G. Fairchild, one of the government agricultural explorers, who has made a special study of this subject, says that it is not pleasant to think that the brilliant white note paper which a lady may have in it part of the filthy garment of some Egyptian fellah, saved by a ragpicker from the gutter, yet it is a fact that hundreds of tons of Egyptian rags are fished every year to the United States to supply our paper mills. At Mannheim on the Rhine, the American importers have rag-picking houses, where rags are collected from all over Europe (the disease infected Levant not excepted) and where women work with wet sponges over their mouths, sorting the filthy scraps for shipment to New York. Our best papers are made from these rags.

Paper made from the inner bark of plants, like the "mitsumata," are a creation of the Orient. They are softer, silkier, tougher and lighter than our papers. If wet they lose their strength, like tissue paper, but on drying regain it. They are usually absorbent, and for this reason were formerly valued highly for surgical purposes.

QUALIFIED. (Life.)

Two friends started out in life, each of them resolving to pursue his own ideal. And one of them went out to see the world and the other became a hermit.

After many years they met again. And the hermit said: "There is only one thing that I am very curious about—women. Have you met any?" "Have I met any?" exclaimed the other, smiling. "Why, women have been my specialty."

"Are they selfish?" "Very."

"Are they inquisitive?" "Dear me, yes!"

"Is it true they talk continuously?" "Oh, yes."

"Are they extravagant?" "Yes, enough to suit any taste."

"Have they any good points?" "Well, I should say they had?"

"What are they?" "Well, they can be unselfish."

"Indeed?" "And they can hold their tongues when the object warrants it."

"You don't say?" "And they can save if they love enough."

"How interesting!" "And they are good nurses. In fact they differ widely in their capabilities. They are constant and inconstant, fickle and true, small and large, charitable and uncharitable, good; bad and indifferent."

The hermit grasped his companion's hand eagerly. "My friend," he said, "this is all very wonderful to me—your knowledge of women is evidently extensive. And now, tell me how many of them you have lived with."

"And the friend replied: "One."

BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT IN GRAVES COUNTY'S CIRCUIT COURT.

With Coming of Winter There is a Multiplication of Marriages in All Sections.

(Mayfield Monitor, 17th.)
A suit with many interesting details has been filed in the Graves County circuit clerk's office. Miss Ollie Reed, who resides near Hickory Grove, is the plaintiff, while the defendant is Floyd Arnett, well known over the county. Miss Reed filed the petition Friday through her attorney, W. J. Webb. She charges that the defendant has failed to come up with his part of a contract to marry her on a certain date, and feels that she is damaged to the extent of $750, and has attached the property of Arnett to cover the amount while the suit is being settled. In the petition Miss Reed swears that in the summer of 1903 Floyd Arnett courted her and finally got her consent for a marriage. It was mutually agreed that they should marry each other on the 25th day of December, 1904. She says she went ahead and prepared in every way for the marriage, and also informed her family and friends. He, she says, seemed intent in carrying out his part of the contract clear up until the day of the marriage was to take place, and then he disappeared and was not on hand at the appointed hour. By reason of this failure on his part the young lady testifies that she felt greatly mortified and humiliated, being the subject of much talk among her neighbors and acquaintances. The case will come up at the November term of court.
Alven Dunn got his leg broken early this morning on the farm of his father, north of town. The boy, about 15 years of age, was driving a wagon team of horses and in endeavoring to pass a cow in the lane, she ran in front of the horses. In the collision the wagon was toppled so suddenly that the boy was tossed out the front end. Before he could escape from his dangerous position, one of the wheels crossed his leg, breaking the bone.

Mrs. E. T. Lucas left last week to accompany her son, Attorney Frank A. Lucas, of Paducah, on a business trip to Asheville, N. C. She will visit relatives in Nashville en route home.
Surrounded by his family, relatives and a few intimate friends, T. A. (Lon) Lain, breathed his last at 10 minutes past 5 o'clock early last Saturday morning, after an illness of several years of dropsy. He was fifty some odd years of age and had been in declining health for a number of years. Besides a wife and three children, three brothers and two sisters survive him, together with many relatives and friends.

(Linton Leader, 16th.)
Mr. Elmo True of this city and Miss Maggie Davis, of Clinton, were married in the latter place yesterday afternoon.
Late yesterday afternoon in the parlors of the Palmer House in Paducah, Ky., Frank Cooley and Mrs. Mayme Meacham were united in the holy bonds of wedlock. Mrs. Cooley was a resident of this city at the time of her marriage and lived with Mrs. Tennie Blythe on Second street. She was the widow of the late Chas. Meacham, and is well known here. Frank Cooley was in business here for many years and has a host of friends in Fulton who wish him all success in his new departure. He is at present residing in Cairo, where he has been engaged in business for several years.

(Wickliffe Yeoman, 16th.)
Mr. James Fletcher died at the home of Dr. J. D. Rollins in Hinkleville last Saturday, September 9, and was buried at Bethel cemetery near Woodville, his old home, Sunday at 3 p. m. He leaves two sisters, Mrs. Dave Murphy and Mrs. Dick Fletcher, all of Woodville, to mourn their loss. Mr. Fletcher was 58 years old.
Dr. John Baker, of Lovelaceville, and Miss Willie Harkless, of near Blandville, stole away from their friends a few days ago and took the train for Fulton, and in short order were made man and wife in that city. Miss Harkless is the youngest daughter of W. J. Harkless, deceased, and is a most charming young lady. Dr. Baker is a son of Dr. T. M. Baker, of Lovelaceville, and is engaged in the practice of his profession in that city.

Pat Rule who took fever at the encampment at Paducah is still very sick with typhoid fever.

Barclay Swann, who is well known here, let his team run away with him at Murray Thursday and broke one of his legs in three places below the knee.

The friends and relatives of Mr. Thebes Farthing are more anxious than ever concerning his whereabouts. A Messenger reporter was informed Friday morning, by his brother-in-law, W. A. Usher, of this city, that not one word had been heard by his

THEATRICAL NEWS

"Polly Primrose Tonight."

"Polly Primrose," in the play of that name, which is to be presented at The Kentucky tonight under the direction of D. L. Williamson, toys with Carlyle, the guest of her father's house, upon her return from college as a kitten with a mouse; and as the kitten does the mouse, keeps him in a state of bewilderment as to what is going to happen to him in the end. The kitten may be presumed to have some pretty clear notions on that particular point in her romp with the mouse; but Polly is quite at sea concerning the outcome of her frolic with Carlyle as that lover of hers is himself. The pretty uncertainty on both sides comes in because their little heart affair is apt to collide at any moment with the war complications that surround the household. Colonel Primrose happens to be in active sympathy with the rebels, even if his home is within sight of the national capitol and there are little plottings going on under the roof that are expected to help Lee's advance upon Washington. Carlyle confesses to a little weakness for the union cause and that fills the home with apprehensions that he might be tempted in a burst of patriotism to run off to the union camp and make known all he has seen.

So Polly's ingenuity is taxed to the utmost to keep the romance outside the war line and in spite of all her finess the tanglement comes. A rival for her hand who is entertained at the house denounces Carlyle as a Federal spy and Polly is enough aroused by the accusation to order Carlyle from the house. But it all comes right in the end. Carlyle is freed of the suspicion, his accuser in the sequel, steals the Colonel's trusty secession horse to carry the news of the plotting to Grant, and Polly surrenders to the union lover. Through it all one would never suspect Miss Arden's subtle interpretation of the part, that Polly ever had a serious thought. She laughs her way into all the complications and then as easily out of them again. She is gay without being frivolous; teases without tormenting, light and bright and altogether so captivating a little rogue that everyone is delighted to see her happy at the fall of the curtain.

Tomorrow Night at The Kentucky.

The World in Motion under the direction of the Fiske Stock company, will be presented at The Kentucky for four nights and Saturday matinee, beginning Wednesday. This attraction will present the local moving pictures taken here a few days ago in connection with a fine list of pictures from every section of the country. All the latest foreign pictures, together with all the new comedy stories will be presented, with mechanical effects and illusions. The vaudeville features are numerous and include Miss Grace Gilmore Hamilton, the celebrated lyceum entertainer, Miss Lulu Koruni, soprano soloist, C. W. Mullen, pianist and the sensation of two continents, LaPortea. What and who is LaPortea? This is a compound question that has kept the wise ones guessing for two seasons in Europe and now Mr. T. V. Stock is going to give the American theatre goers a chance to figure the mystery out. LaPortea offers a large field for conclusion. There is nothing magical about it. It is an illusion that is still not an illusion, but the question still remains the same as at first. "What, and who is LaPortea?" Perhaps you can figure it out. See it, and try. Come and see if you can recognize yourself in any of the pictures that were taken around the city.

wife or her family or his father's family since he left the bank, as to where he is. They are uneasy for fear that he has taken his own life. The family is very much distressed about him.

Mrs. Cora Beck, of this city, who went to Arkansas last spring for the purpose of having her husband Frank Beck arrested for marrying another woman without being divorced, received a letter Friday morning from Benton stating that Mr. Beck had been indicted by the grand jury, on a charge of bigamy, had pled guilty, and was sent to the penitentiary for three years.

(Bardwell News, 16th.)
A pretty wedding occurred at the residence of Attorney Lee T. Taylor Saturday evening at 6 o'clock, the parties to the contract being Mr. J. B. Lane and Miss Buena Dunn, daughter of Ballard county.

After an illness which extended over a period of several years, Mrs. Phoebe Brent, wife of Ben Brent, who resides near Millburn, died Monday morning at 5 o'clock. Mrs. Brent was a sister of Wm. H. and John D. Shaffer and Mrs. John Hight.

EXCURSION IDEA

COUPONS TO BE GIVEN PARTIES MAKING PURCHASES WHILE HERE.

For The Amounts Spent They Get Percentages of Their Railroad Fare Returned.

Many of the business men who are members of the Retail Merchants' association, yesterday expressed themselves as being well pleased with the idea of running excursions into this city from surrounding towns, as announced they would through these columns Sunday morning. They believe much business can be done in that manner with the customers from nearby towns and that it would redound to the benefit of both local merchant and visitor.

President Charles Weille, of the association, who called it into session for tonight to take up the plan, said yesterday that his idea was to pay the railroad fare of the visitors according to the amount of goods he bought. When one of the excursions are run into here by the merchants' association, Mr. Weille advocates letting the man coming here on same, get a receipt from the railroad ticket agent at the place he hails from, this receipt to show how much railroad fare the gentleman paid the road. When the outsider then comes on here he will go to one store and make a purchase and be given a coupon by the proprietor showing how much he bought there. Then if the stranger wants to make purchases in another line, he goes to the business house handling such character of goods he wants, and buys there. At that place he also gets a coupon showing the amount of the sale made him. After the stranger finishes making all his purchases here in the city he then takes to the secretary of the Retail Merchants' association all the coupons he got at the various stores, showing what he bought. The secretary then totals the amount he spent here and pays whatever portion of the railroad fare he is entitled to.

Although this grade has not been fixed, the principle will be something on the order like this: If a stranger buys $5 worth here, pay 25 miles of his fare; $10 worth pay 50 miles of his fare; $15 pay 75 miles, and $20 pay all of his fare. The figures may not be the same as these, but along that principle.

Of course there will be recognized only those coupons coming from the stores that are members of the association.

YANKEES PROPOSE TO RUN LONDON.

Plan Contemplates Many New Ideas for the Effete Old Metropolis.

London, Sept. 18.—Not content with coming across themselves every summer to enjoy the sights and pleasures of London, the Americans, or a portion of them, propose to bring their business enterprises here with the object of increasing the attractions of the effete old city. An outline of the ambitious scheme which an American syndicate has in contemplation, is given in the "City Press." The arrangements are, of course, not yet complete, but so far as can be learned the Yankees intend to appeal to all classes of pleasure-seekers—to theater-goers, the epicure, the lady shopper, the antiquarian, the archaeologist and the student of history.

The plan of campaign even includes a request to the Lord Mayor to open the doors of the Mansion House at stated intervals. The city companies will also be asked to cede a like favor by throwing open their beautiful halls for inspection by the tourists under the escort of the syndicate's courier.

BARREL BLEW UP.

Two Young Men Thought of Every Sin They Had Ever Committed.

In a certain saloon in this city several nights since there happened one of the most amusing things ever occurring. It was the explosion of a whiskey barrel that had just enough beverage inside to blow it up easy.

Two young men were sitting on the barrel which was lying lengthwise in the coffee house, with the bung right in between them on the top side. They were chatting away, when one struck a match with which to light a cigarette. The bung was not in properly and the flame from the lucifer ignited the fumes oozing from inside the barrel, with result that the affair exploded with just force enough to wreck the barrel and let the men have a good, hard fall, but without hurting them.

In the insurance investigation now going on in New York it has been developed that the New York Life gave $48,000 to the National Republican committee in the last canvass, and that this was in accordance with a practice for several canvasses.

The factory of the Climax Fuse company near Avon, Conn., exploded Saturday. In the general destruction of the plant thirteen persons were killed and a number injured.

COSTLY CARPETS.

Some of Those Owned by Royalty of Historic Interest.

A magnificent Persian carpet has just been brought to England as a present from the shah to the king. It is entirely hand-made, and its manufacture, despite the number of workers employed, took upward of three years to complete. It is of the most artistic and intricate design, into which the king's name, Edward VII., is woven.

The palatial hall of the Goldsmiths company, in Foster Lane, contains three costly carpets, made at the factory of Wilson, near Salisbury. The largest, which is in the court drawing room, and measures 40 feet 2 inches by 26 feet 9 inches, is of a rich crimson, surrounding a centre, 10 feet by 9 feet, consisting of the company's arms in their heraldic coloring of blue, green, red and purple upon a white ground, and enclosed in a border of festooned roses with medallions at each corner. In setting the pile of this carpet, which weighs about 1,200 pounds, over 5,500,000 knots were it is said, used.

Another company that of the Girlders, possessed a carpet which in historic interest is probably unique. It was manufactured in the reign of Charles I at the factory of Akbar the great at Lahore, to the order of Robert Bell, who in 1634 was the master of the company. The carpet, which is 24 feet by 7 feet 6 inches, is worked with the company's coat of arms and crest and two bales of merchandise, on either side of which are the donor's arms and two bales of merchandise, on which are his initials and trademark.

At the time of the great fire this carpet was saved from destruction, only to fall upon a Gothic age that regarded it as a mere floor covering, and year by year it grew more dirty and dilapidated. From this scandalous neglect it was rescued some few years since by members of the court more discriminating than the majority and after thorough renovation, was placed in a finely carved oak frame and hung above the high table.

The prayer carpet on view at South Kensington is a splendid specimen. Measuring some 33 feet by 20 feet, it was purchased at a cost of $12,500, chiefly through the instrumentality of William Morris, the poet, who, with other gentlemen, gave a handsome subscription for that purpose. It came originally from the mosque at Ardabil, for which it was made in the year 946 of the Hegira (A. D. 540) by Mkhoud of Kashan, a fact which, together with a pious maxim, is recorded in words which are woven into the texture of the carpet itself.

Two other magnificent carpets were four years ago sold at the Municipal Chamber at Lisbon to pay for repairs at the Royal convent of St. Antonio, to which they had been given by the Infanta Donna Sanche in 1500. For these carpets, which are of Persian manufacture, 18 feet square and embroidered with gold, the bidding was very brisk. Starting at $4,444, it rapidly rose to $8,340, at which price the prize, at $5,000 below its real value, was secured by a Frenchman. Public opinion, however, was so greatly against the sale that two other equally valuable carpets, the property of the Estrella convent, were withdrawn.

A curious carpet has lately been manufactured at Caesarea. It is a representation of the battle of Trafalgar, depicting that moment in the engagement when Nelson received his fatal wound. The carpet, which is entirely of silk, is 7 feet by 6 feet, and it took two girls fourteen months to weave it. It was sold for $2,000.

Another historical event, the recapture of Buda from the Turks, in 1686, was the subject of a carpet manufactured at the Beauvais factory established in 1664 for Mme de Maintenon, wife of Louis XIV.

Some of the carpets in the possession of Eastern potentates are of similar magnificence and value. In the great exhibition of 1851 an elaborate cashmere carpet was shown by the Maharajah Goolab Singh. It was composed of silk, and every square foot contained no fewer than 10,000 knots.—Tit-Bits.

JUST CARELESS.

(Burgess Johnson, in Harper's.)
They tell me, when I lose a thing,
No one's at fault but me;
It's just because I'm careless
'N what I ought to be.
But there are happenin's that show
It isn't true a bit—
'Cause when a thing gets lost, I know
It's part the fault of it.

'Cause often when I'm in the house
For just a little while,
I put my cap an' ball an' such
All in a little pile.
Then when I'm in a rush to go,
And hurry right to where
I left 'em, it's most always so
That one of 'em's not there!

And while we hunt with all our might,
The thing we're looking for
Is hid, I'm sure, just out of sight
An' laughin' more an' more.
'Cause it can hear us goin' wrong
'A' sayin', 'Where d'you s'pose
That old thing is?' An' all along
It's happy 'cause it knows!

The Washington department of agricultural report just out give the condition of the tobacco crop in this state as most favorable.

A sailing craft flying a black flag appeared in the lake harbor of Chicago Sunday afternoon and attacked the members of the Douglas yacht club. NICE AFFAIR

LARGE HOUSE GREETED "DAVID, THE SHEPHERD BOY" LAST NIGHT.

There Were About Seventy-Five in The Cast and Chorus and all Did Unusually Well.

A large crowd of many hundred people were at The Kentucky last evening witnessing the excellent entertainment given for benefit of the young men's Christian association, and were all well pleased with the unusually fine character of amusement afforded them, as although the talent was local amateur in the entirety, still they presented their trying parts in a manner showing considerable talent and ability. The encores and applause were profuse and showed the audience enjoyed the attraction to the extreme and were more than pleased with the affair.

The title, "David, The Shepherd Boy" was one most appropriate considering the character of institution for benefit of which the presentation was made. There were about 75 altogether in the piece and it took about two and one-half hours to present the piece, commencing at 8:30 o'clock.

The performance was promoted by the women's committee of the association, but under the personal direction of Miss M. T. Pugh, of Memphis, who is a versatile and talented lady traveling the country with these specialties.

The performance last night drew receipts of $172, while the matinee by the children Saturday afternoon realized $151. Both of these are gross receipts, but when the expenses are paid, the committee will have quite a nice sum they will add to their expense fund for maintenance of the Y. M. C. A.

HANDSOME BADGE

Major George Saunders Received One He Was to Have Worn at Denver.

Deputy Marshal George Saunders yesterday morning received from national headquarters of the G. A. R. a handsome badge, like that used by the delegates to the national convention in Denver, Colo., the first of this month.

Mr. Saunders was the delegate from Kentucky to the gathering that was participated in by surviving Federal soldiers from over the entire United States. He did not get to go though, but despite this the headquarters sent him his elegant badge, which is handsomely engraved and quite a souvenir of the occasion.
